EASTERN DATES TO AUGUST 21.

PRUSSIAN VICTORY AT CHALONS

PARIS TO STAND A SIEGE.

The Great Powers about to interfere.

STRASBURG BOMBARDED

PARIS August 21.—Strong bodies of troops belonging to McMahon's army are being pushed to Vosges.

A Deputy of the Corps Legislatif to-day announced that the Prussians had entered Chalons Sur Marne. This would indicate that the Prussians are marching on Paris via Sussanne.

A dispatch from a Prussian source announces the commencement of the bombardment of Strasbourg.

It is particularly denied that the Emperor is at Rheims. He has again gone to Chalons.

Advices from Mulhausen report that the Prussians have entered Fralein, then ... has issued a proclamation the meaning of which is that Paris will have to stand a siege.

A correspondent of the ... declares from actual observation that the road from Metz to Verdun is occupied by the Prussians. At Verdun no news has been heard from Bazaine since the 19th. The headquarters of Prince Frederick Charles were near St. Michael eight leagues from Verdun.

The Figaro asserts that the camp at Chalons is broken up and the troops lately there must now be close to the corps of the Prince Royal ... the Prussians now have around them Marshal Bazaine with his forces massed in and about Metz on the one hand and McMahon with his corps and a large force which was at Chalons on the other. The Liberte says the statement of the Figaro is correct.

The ... says England and Russia and Italy have agreed to act together to insure peace.

BRUSSELS August 21.—Mon ... England and Italy have determined to intervene jointly. Austria's concurrence is expected.

LONDON Aug 21.—Cholera is raging at St Petersburg. One hundred and fifty persons are dying daily.

CARLSRUHE Aug 21.—A special says Strasbourg is in flames. The French have fired the surrounding villages. They make frequent sorties which are constantly repulsed. Fighting ... and Prussians have arrived with a train of heavy siege artillery. The city is surrounded by thirty thousand men under Gen. Werder. The inhabitants are demoralized. Disorder prevails everywhere. The surrender of the city is hourly expected.

The Crown Prince has won another victory in a great battle before Chalons.

PORT A MOUSSON via London Aug ... Prisoners still pour in. Last night there arrived 2,000 prisoners and 36 officers. To-day more soldiers and 54 officers were brought in, among the latter was General ... Lombino.

The loss of the French during the week cannot be less than 50,000 killed, wounded and missing, as they have lost 15,000 in each battle including at least 4,000 prisoners.

BERLIN August 21.—It is officially stated that the only important news received since the action at Rezonville is that the French have withdrawn all forces into the fortifications at Metz.

LONDON August 21.—Telegrams of Saturday A M are only just received in Paris from the scene of war around Metz. The position of Bazaine causes great apprehensions. Paris now knows that the Prussian Crown Prince is at Vitry le Francaise and a battle decisive of the war is hourly expected between him and McMahon.

A special from Paris Friday night says that the Emperor while at Chalons was hissed and hooted at by soldiers.

Pfalsburg in Vosges was captured Saturday by the Wurtemberg army. The capture of this fortress insures communication of the Crown Prince with his base of supplies.

A special correspondent at Chalons writes that the Emperor has arrived here. McMahon and Canrobert are here.

In the affair at Longnoville the Emperor narrowly escaped being killed or captured.

NEW YORK August 21.—The World's special from London of the 21st says the battle at Rezonville was without decisive result. It is claimed by the Prussians. The French fell back in good order without pursuit to Metz, their ammunition having given out. The losses of the Prussians greatly exceeded the French, the former losing 40,000 on Thursday alone ... whole corps has been cut to pieces and his magnificent cavalry no longer exists.

Some say the Crown Prince is marching on Chalons, others that he has halted at Bar le Duc. McMahon is at Chalons.

UTAH

SALT LAKE August 21.—Hon. W. H. Seward and party arrived here last night and will remain a day or two.

D. Williams working in Little Cottonwood canyon fell over a cliff near Davenport ... Thursday night fracturing his skull. His injuries are severe if not fatal.

NEVADA

BATTLE MOUNTAIN August ... The Battle Mountain Mining Co. shipped to-day by the Central Pacific railroad ten car loads of copper ore for Liverpool.

Wells Fargo & Co shipped from Austin east in the past week 905 pounds of bullion.

W. J. Westerfield of this place is the Democratic candidate for State Senator in the coming election.

CARSON August 21.—Chinamen and French men on Clear Lake west of Carson are reported to be fighting to-day. The trouble arose from the late massacre of French in China.

The steamer ... will make trips across Lake Tahoe leaving Tahoe City for Glenbrook on Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday making two trips each day.

CALIFORNIA

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 21. The day has been fine and a large number of persons participated in the excursion of the ... to Angel Island where they enjoyed a ... clam bake and muscles.

The French have been burning ... all day on a private dispatch received by the proprietor of a dry goods store from the city of Paris in the following words: "Great battle. Victory." ... No date ... the victory is as good and ... the telegram as of special significance.

Many people on the street are eagerly awaiting the posting of news on the bulletin boards or the issuing of extras.

The funeral of the late ... Consul from Mexico took place quietly ... Mountain ... A large number of friends of the family ... were in attendance. The remains were removed ... receiving vault and ... Laurel Hill Cemetery.

The steamer ... arrived from Portland to-day.

FOREIGN NOTES

The Empress Eugenie is said to be devoured by a restless fear of the consequences of the war she did so much to bring about. For hours she ... in consultation with her confessor and her features have assumed a haggard and careworn appearance.

Eighty young men from Frankfort who had emigrated to England from their native city in order not to serve in the Prussian army ... have returned in a body to serve as volunteers during the war. On their way through Belgium they were enthusiastically cheered at every station.

A great part of the Vienna press are taking strong sides against France and ... complaints against Prussia for having forced the Austrians out of the German Confederation ... that they are compelled to look on idly while their German brethren struggle against the hereditary foe of the Germans.

It is asserted that the confidential valet of the Empress of the French has just arrived in London. It is reported that he carries with him all the jewels of his mistress and other valuables which he is to deposit at the Bank of England. Eugenie evidently looks forward to certain contingencies that might occur and her recent declaration that she would wear no jewels till the war was over so sentimentally commented upon by the French press has the origin probably in the absence of those jewels.

The English Ambassador at the Court of Constantinople Elliot was instrumental in bringing about a reconciliation between the Sultan and his redoubtable vassal, the Viceroy of Egypt. The latter explained his armaments and the two Moslem princes parted friends. But the struggle between them has only been postponed and not totally averted, and the firebrands of war which have been smothered for the moment are now smoldering under the ashes and ... France and Prussia the two countries must clash arms against one another sooner or later.

A party of Frenchmen recently undertook to make excavations for antiquities in Greece in order to take them to France although this is strictly prohibited by the laws of Greece. They proceeded to the Island of Santorin and secured some valuable specimens. When they returned with them to Athens the authorities at that place confiscated the antiquities. At this the French Ambassador at that court demanded their restoration to the French in a bullying and insolent manner backing up his demand with a few French men of war. The Greek Government weak as it is had to yield to force.

Count Palikao has issued an address to the French troops in which he blames them for firing too quick at Weissenburg. He says they used more ammunition in one day than the Prussians would in three. The Marshal reminds the soldiers that they are now in a grand line of defense from Thionville to Metz and Nancy and they must hold their ground. Lack of that is the line of the Meuse then Champagne then the Argonne then the line of rivers illustrated by the campaign of 1814 and beyond all their Paris behind Paris is all France, with four millions of armed men and a thousand billions of treasure.

The bridge at Kehl says the Pall Mall Gazette, no longer offers the amusing spectacle it formerly presented. The sentinels who mounted guard at each end of it are no longer in their places. It was curious to watch them pacing up and down their own share of the bridge. A line traced across showed the precise spot which neither might pass and so the two marched along—the one with the vivacity of the Frenchman the other with the placidity and phlegm of the German. The sentinels often met in the middle of the bridge the Frenchman looked at the Prussian and the Prussian looked at the Frenchman and each, without saying a word, retraced his steps. Indeed, there is no example of these slaves to discipline having ever offered each other a pinch of snuff. One evening last year, says a French paper the Prussian sentinel was suddenly heard calling "To arms!" The frightened bystanders ran up and found that the French sentinel had ... totally placed his foot beyond the line of demarcation and thus invaded Prussian territory.

The Chicago Times publishes a letter from A de Sellay, a prominent grain merchant of New York enclosing the following extract from a private letter from his brother in France. M Sellay says his brother never was a Bonapartist but a Frenchman. "Our brother Henry is well. He has just started with the frigate ... Admiral Fribuert. He is full of vigor fire and energy as are the whole fleet and the whole army which are wrought up to the highest pitch of excitement to think that at last they have the opportunity to revenge insults, to fight, to kill or to die. They are wrought up as the whole of France is who in spite of a few and isolated countrymen bellowers (no other way to translate) is literally shaking faith, anger hope and patriotism. Never have I seen anything like it and it is not probable that I shall ever see the like of it again."

CHINA.—THE MASSACRE OF THE FRENCH MISSIONARIES AT TIENTSIN.—Unfortunately the rumored massacre of the French Consul and members of the Roman Catholic establishment at Tientsin, in China is now fully confirmed. The Russian Government has received a telegram dated Kiachta July 5th, in which it is stated that on the 21st June the Chinese populace at Tientsin rose against the Roman Catholic missionaries and murdered not only the priests and sisters of charity residing in the town, but also the French Consul his secretary two French merchants and their wives and two young Russians. Not content with wreaking their fury on these unhappy persons, the mob burnt the French Consulate the Roman Catholic church and the hospital of the sisters. Of the cause that led to this outbreak we know nothing as yet. One thing however is certain and that is that the fury of the mob was directed chiefly against members of the Roman Catholic religion and notably the priests. The two Russians were probably murdered in mistake for Frenchmen. We shall most likely hear that the same wild reports as to the murder of infants by the missionaries for the purpose of making medicaments from their eyes brains &c which have been at the bottom of all massacres ... have lately occurred in China are the cause of this one also. The Chinese Government may congratulate itself that France has a much more ... now than ... involved in this massacre. That it will be passed over is not to be expected.

An expedition will doubtless be sent to avenge the insult to the French flag and ... the Pekin Government ... called upon for ... further ... With the ... of the ... coast of China was ... and the rulers and people of China of the present day seem determined that free admission ... the empire shall be yielded to the ... power of the same weapon ...

A pamphlet recently issued in St Louis under the title of "St Louis the future great City of the World" claims that by 1900 ... a population of 17,447, ... The Chicago T... says:

[illegible]

The Toronto ... believes that the day is not far distant when a small standing army belonging exclusively to and sustained by the Dominion Government will be organized.

The Canyon City Fire

The following account of the Canyon City fire, furnished us by a correspondent at that place has been delayed somewhere in the mails but we give it place since it contains particulars not heretofore published.

CANYON CITY OGN Aug 13 1870

What a world of smoke, ashes, and ruins. Canyon City remains only in name. Nearly all that was lovely or valuable of our once favored county seat has passed away. The city having been composed almost entirely of wooden buildings save a few bank fire proofs and everything as dry as powder, you may well imagine the quick destruction that followed. The fire is said to have originated from the kitchen stove pipe in the International Hotel, George Beson proprietor. The day was calm and lovely. A quiet breeze was perceptible from the north but was quickly fanned to greater activity by the first burst of flame ... Men women and children ... excitement as the devouring element spread with increased fury northward southward eastward and westward. The flames, like infuriated demons bent on destruction leaped from roof to roof and from street to street causing the frail structures to disappear like leaves before a driving storm." There being but little hopes from the first of saving any buildings in the business portion of the town many heroic yet successful efforts were made to save human lives precious relics public documents and valuable property. Several persons were confined to their beds at the time and were the first to claim the attention of their friends. By immediate and vigorous action they were rescued just in time to escape most horrible deaths. A decrepit Chinaman however fell a victim to the flames and was burnt to a cinder. It is said that he was in the act of secreting some stolen goods when the flames closed him in forever.

We need only mention a few cases of hair breadth escapes in which true heroism was exhibited. Mrs Day wife of the U S Deputy Marshal for this county, while engaged in the daring attempt to secure her husband's public and private papers from the burning International was twice carried from the surrounding flames and falling timbers. Still undaunted in the spirit of a devoted wife and a true heroine she was about to make her last desperate effort when the papers were secured and she carried them off in triumph to the joy of many witnesses. We next find her in the store room of ... Fearing & Co engaged in packing goods into the underground fire proof and when informed that the fire was upon them and that she had better flee for her life she firmly replied, "We can save a few more things" and kept to work until Mr Fearing closed the iron doors against her and forced her from the burning building.

There are also several other ladies who might be honorably mentioned in this connection for their daring and perseverance did space permit.

F. C. Sels our present County Judge came near losing his life through over-exertion and copious inhalation of heat and smoke. He is still confined to his bed and is in rather a critical condition. Hopes, however, are entertained of his recovery.

Every business house and many private dwellings have been destroyed. The following is a list of the losses as obtained in person from the parties themselves:

SOFT WATER FOR HORSES.—Youatt in his book entitled The Horse, says this animal will never drink hard water if soft water is in reach, that he will leave transparent hard water for a pool of soft even though the latter be discolored with mud. Very cold water from the well will make the hair rise up and not unfrequently cause an attack of the gripes. Give soft water if practicable especially if the animal is ailing.

The Daily Oregonian

TUESDAY MORNING AUGUST 23 1870

What Can the Democratic Party Offer

[illegible] it is what [illegible] before [illegible] that [illegible] there [illegible] excitement [illegible] are being managed [illegible] with [illegible] satisfaction and [illegible] everybody that the interests of the country are [illegible] The Administration has made a splendid record in the matter of retrenchment economy and reduction of the debt Throughout the land general prosperity prevails People are not afraid that the country may be brought into trouble or plunged in disaster They are satisfied that all is safe [illegible] they can quiet and dismiss from their minds the [illegible] political agitation which has been kept almost without intermission for more than ten years

It is noticeable however that a class of partisans of the Democratic persuasion try to keep up the excitement Like importunate guinea-fowls crying day and night, they continue their scream about the "dangers that threaten the country," about "Radical usurpation and extravagance," about the "burdens of taxation," about "negro suffrage" and the "heathenish Chinaman" But they can awake no interest they can produce nothing like a political sensation Those themes have long been threadbare People are aware that the management of affairs is now about right or as near right as they can expect to see it they can perceive no reason for a change of party rule, and therefore do not respond to the attempts of Democratic leaders and politicians

A new Congress is to be chosen this fall On what issues does the Democratic party go before the people? What can they promise for the country? Republicans are doing well enough for the country and the people will ask themselves why they should try an uncertain experiment with the Democratic party It has no policy to offer them It simply asserts that the Republican policy is wrong but is unable to show in what particulars Democrats cannot agree among themselves as to the policy they should adopt and pursue Not long ago we saw in the Herald an account of a meeting of Democratic Senators and Representatives at Washington "Financial propositions," says the report "were discussed with a view to having united action on the part of the Democracy but it was soon ascertained that the members from the East could not agree with those from the West and the matter was dropped" In other words, the Western members advocated propositions akin to repudiation, the Eastern members opposed, and to secure harmony "the matter was dropped" It thus appears that the Democratic party cannot agree upon a policy to pursue with respect to the most important matters now before the country Is such a party fit to govern? The people will conclude not

The War News

Most of the dispatches received come through German sources, or sources friendly to Germany, and doubtless to some extent take their color from this fact Nevertheless it is certain that the Germans are still steadily gaining ground The fighting appears to go on almost without intermission and the destruction of life is terrible The largest masses of men ever opposed to each other in war have now been engaged for nearly three weeks. The French are bearing up with a fortitude that could hardly be expected in them after so many reverses, and though defeated almost every day, are ready on the morrow for a renewal of the contest. Whether they will be able to extricate themselves a very few days will determine It is evident, however, that they do not yet think of giving up the struggle Meantime there are signs that other Powers may interpose It begins to look as if Italy would be found very soon on the side of France.

The Germans have reserves to fill up their ranks decimated in battle and of course they will push their successes to the utmost It is now almost certain that they will soon appear before the fortifications of Paris The French people, it would seem, have utterly forgotten the Emperor and are united to meet the common danger in the most fearful crisis which France has experienced since 1815

The rumor of the capture of King William which was the sensation of yesterday, we take to be without foundation So great a fact would have something more than the rumor of an obscure newspaper to support it Somebody has evidently started the report with a design of getting up a speculation in funds Enterprise of this description for the purpose of causing a fluctuation of a few points in gold for speculative objects, is common in times like the present when great events are expected

A letter from Paris to the Chicago Republican says that too many people commit the error of supposing that France was dragged into war by the Emperor against her will. It is stated by the writer that there was a popular demand for the war which was irresistible and except in the case of the extreme opposition the popular heart was thoroughly enlisted in the contest He likewise predicted that France would fight in this struggle as long as she could command a man or a franc There was a popular idea that they were forced to go to war to preserve their national position and existence and they accepted the contest without hesitation or regret

Bayard Taylor, in one of his recent letters from San Francisco to the New York Tribune refers to the Overland Monthly as an excellent and admirably conducted magazine He adds "It is the only literary periodical on the Pacific coast and even local pride one would suppose, would secure it a supporting circulation in California Nevada and Oregon Yet the publisher informed me that its entire circulation in those States is only equal to that in the East, and consequently it is only half supported there It is more extensively and appreciatively noticed in our papers than in those of California"

Telegraphic communication between Germany and England is secured by a cable from Dover to Bremen A wire also crosses the North Sea from Edinburg, Scotland, to Christiana, Sweden and thence proceeds by Copenhagen to communication with different places in Germany Another line from New Castle, England, crosses to Copenhagen and runs along the Baltic to St Petersburg, whence communication is [illegible] lines with other parts of Europe

We guess there is a slight mistake about the capture of King William It was the doughty Fenian General O Neill if we remember rightly who was arrested in the midst of his army and this report may have grown out of that [illegible] have [illegible] that

Industrial Wants and Reforms

A [illegible] of San Francisco [illegible] contains [illegible] Dr [illegible] in California [illegible] the great [illegible] exists in industry and business and points out the pressing need of commercial and industrial reform One of these "troubles" is said to be the old habits of social extravagance and high prices, in which the Alta remarks that [illegible] in 1870 [illegible] of San Francisco [illegible] that people [illegible] applied to Oregon [illegible] to California [illegible] that [illegible] We produce those things which require the least labor and import those requiring the most We exchange [illegible] for manufactured articles We are impoverishing our soil to pay for the skill and industry of people abroad We sell wheat and hides and buy shoes sell gold in bars and buy jewelry The people [illegible] time impoverish a State that consumes an unparalleled proportion of foreign products especially of the luxurious class which gives no employment to industry and no return to commerce We have been saved so far by gold and immigration without them our pride would long ago have been brought down

Another trouble is said to be the rushing after the new mining districts and the abandoning of regular industry in the hope of making a sudden fortune This evil has been powerfully felt in Oregon also and has caused our State as well as California no small [illegible] The Alta [illegible] by the Chinaman But for them we should be in a much worse condition than we are By their help we have railroads and wagon roads we manufacture blankets cigars slippers and clothing, and we grow grain wine silk berries and vegetables Without them thousands of families would be in despair at the lack of cheap washing and of respectful servants They pay large sums for rent traveling fare tools, food and clothes They glean the mining ground that is too poor to reward the white man They make up by economy and long hours of labor for inferior wages They contribute as much as any other class of equal number to produce and consume those articles which give business to our steamboats railroads and towns and the assertion that they add nothing to the wealth of the State is without foundation

The Oregon City Enterprise says we ought to know that a separate Supreme Court will not be organized so as to provide a place for Col Kelly, because the State has not yet 200 000 inhabitants Wouldn't it be as easy for the Legislature to assume that our population is 200 000 as it was for Gen Lane and their Democrats a dozen years ago when they wanted the State admitted to claim a population of 100 000? Democracy is always sufficiently fertile in expedients of this kind

A genius at Vancouver of Napoleonic predilections has discovered so the Register says, the reason why the astute and wily Emperor declared war It was a grand immigration scheme of his and so admirably has it succeeded that already a million Germans of the most sturdy class have been induced to enter France and more are on the way There's nothing like going down to the real causes of things

THE TERRITORIES

There are 300 Chinese working in the placers below Wagontown, Owyhee, making from $2 to $5 per day to the hand

The Corinne Reporter says "A street railway is being agitated by some of our citizens" Better get some one there to ride on it first

Boise valley has produced quite a crop of apples and peaches this season They compare favorably with imported fruit in size and flavor

A Walla Walla paper learns that a great many new settlers are going into the Spokane country A number of immigrant teams have arrived at Walla Walla from Iowa.

We noticed in a previous issue says a Walla Walla paper, a rumor of the proposed building of a woolen mill in this valley We are now confidently informed that articles of incorporation will be made during the present week, and that all the necessary machinery will be immediately ordered from the East

From Boise Statesman, 16th There is a report of new mines on Snake river at the foot of the Big canyon a few miles above the Owyhee ferry Several parties started for that place prospecting last week, and more are going this week The prospect is said to be good There is no longer any doubt but paying mines will be found throughout the whole length of Snake river from Lembi to Lewiston Its sands are literally sands of gold, and its tributaries are but the tailraces of rich placers

The following narrow escape is chronicled in an Idaho paper Week before last a little child of Mr Crabtree Smith, living near Forty nine ranch, in Payette valley, strayed away about dusk and could not be found The alarm was given and the neighborhood turned out to search for the missing one The hunt was prolonged the entire night without success, but in the morning it was found near the ranch of a neighbor three miles distant with a long willow switch in its hands When discovered, the child said, "I whipped the dog away" Upon examining the ground a large coyote's tracks were observed and it appeared that the cowardly brute had followed the little wanderer all night but was frightened away by the willow switch It was a narrow escape from being devoured alive

NOTES ON THE WAR

We have heard so much about German unanimity in the present war that it is rather refreshing than otherwise to find a German in this country putting himself in opposition The editor of the Neue Zeit (New York) reminds the German exiles that they left their native country to escape the oppressions of despots like King William "Much has been said" he exclaims "of Germany's greatness Germany's honor Germany's unity of Germany's freedom not a word"

Prussia has secured the safety of the Baltic by endangering Paris The far famed Baltic expedition under General Trochu has turned back its troops being needed at Metz Nothing could have more signally confirmed the wisdom of Prussia in boldly taking the initiative and carrying the war into France By so doing she has paralyzed the French navy—the arm of the service in which Prussia had most reason to dread her own weakness The French navy can do nothing against an army that is thundering at the gates of Paris unless it may be to send a steamer to take the Emperor the Empress and the Prince Imperial out of the country

The Chicago Tribune has this paragraph In about the same space of time that the first Napoleon overthrew two empires at Austerlitz the third has overthrown one at Saarbruck and Hagenau, to wit the French Empire Upon the same ground on which the first Emperor, in 1814 with barely 70 000 men, was holding at bay the whole of Europe and rejecting proposals of peace from the frightened allies which would have left him the undisputed master of France his clumsy successor with half a million soldiers is retreating before the armies of Germany unable to get half his men into action or to keep up communications between the different wings of his army

The New York Standard earnestly hopes that the Republicans of New York will nominate Horace Greeley for Governor It says he is a Republican with a national reputation, has given forty years of hard service to his party, belongs to neither faction of his party, is a man whom every good citizen would be glad to see as Governor and if the party cannot win with Mr Greeley it cannot win at all

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[illegible] who was drowned [illegible] and was recovered by dragging about [illegible] o'clock after having been in the water nearly two hours Mr [illegible] was a steady and industrious man aged about thirty five years [illegible] member of the Washington Guard in this city All that we can learn of his family connections is that his father and a sister Mrs [illegible] live on the Tualatin Plains A [illegible] will be sent to them with the news this morning The remains lie at the Washington Guard armory

BRICK BUILDING IN PORTLAND—There are now in process of construction several of the finest brick buildings on the north Pacific coast [illegible] the walls are already engaged [illegible] corner of Front and [illegible] covers a quarter of a block [illegible] to be two stories high [illegible] a hundred feet front on Front and First streets and a length of two hundred feet [illegible] Capt Flanders brick at the steamboat landing covers a quarter of a block [illegible] We have no means of knowing the cost of these buildings but the aggregate of the four we have mentioned can scarcely fall short of $130 [illegible]

LODGE ROOM DEDICATION—The new hall of Yamhill Lodge I O G T at Dayton, Yamhill county, was dedicated last Friday by Grand Master Wm Dierdorff Several of the brethren of this city [illegible] were present [illegible] The preliminary [illegible] took place at the old hall when a procession was formed headed by a band of music Thence the lodge in a body with the visitors marched to the church, where Bro O N Denny of Portland delivered the oration After this and some other exercises the procession was re-formed and marched to the new hall and then the dedicatory ceremonies proper [illegible] In the evening there was a festival ball at the Dayton Hotel The visiting members from this city are profuse in their expressions of gratification at the happy manner in which the ceremonies went off and the brotherly and hospitable way in which they were entertained by the Dayton brethren

THE WAR EXCITEMENT—At no time since the opening of hostilities has there been so much excitement on the streets as yesterday upon the receipt of the rumor that the French had captured the Prussian headquarters and that King William and Gen Sheridan were prisoners The dispatch came [illegible] between the San Francisco and Portland operators and the substance of it was immediately posted on the newspaper bulletin boards and published with the other evening dispatches in extras Large crowds gathered around the bulletins and discussed the news [illegible] Germans manifested more excitement than even the French though the latter were greatly elated, and Americans joined with interest in talking the matter over As a general thing the news was discredited by all parties though it was thought quite likely that the French army had achieved some success The news did not have so decided an effect upon the price of legal tenders as might have been expected Gold was reported in New York [illegible] Legal tenders were bought here [illegible] small sums, at 86½ and [illegible] asked

MR. MELVILLE'S BENEFIT—This evening Mr Melville takes his benefit at Oro Fino Theater and offers a splendid bill the comic Irish drama of His Last Legs and the musical farce of Mr and Mrs Peter White with a musical olio of songs and dances by the Pixley Sisters Pete Lawson, Dennis Johnny Kearney and others In His Last Legs Mr Melville will appear as Felix O'Callahan supported by the entire company and in the farce Melville and Miss [illegible] will appear as Mr and Mrs Peter White. In the latter piece there will be ballads by Miss [illegible] and Miss Annie a medley, duet and [illegible] No better bill has been offered this season and as [illegible] the deservings of the beneficiary it ought to draw a full house

A RICH HALF DOLLAR—Mr Joseph Bachman exhibited yesterday a half dollar which was lost in a mining creek at Marysville Grant county some years ago by Mr W H Clark and found again by the same gentleman a few days since The piece has been considerably worn but [illegible] it had accumulated [illegible] enough to make it worth about one dollar and a quarter The chemical action [illegible] in the sluice box studded the surface of the coin all over with fine particles of gold [illegible] as firmly as if they had grown together [illegible] after many days so much increased in value [illegible] nobody is reported as having gone into the business

FRUIT—[illegible] the very finest peaches that have appeared in this market the present season [illegible] grown on Sauvies Island by Mr [illegible] They are larger than any we have seen [illegible] Melons [illegible]

CITY.

DROWNED.—Mr. Z. D. Bones, a young man [illegible] his home at East Portland, was drowned at North Portland, about 5 o'clock, under the following circumstances: He and another had just come up the river with a flatboat loaded with wood, and were in the act of landing near the piles at Estes & Stimson's saw mill. [illegible] stood on the guard as the boat approached, for the purpose of passing a line around one of the piles, to make fast. As he threw the [illegible] with one hand and reached with the [illegible] end, he lost his hold upon the [illegible] and fell into the water sinking out of sight at once. One of the witnesses says that he rose to the surface, but another thinks he did not [illegible] at all. Efforts were immediately made to [illegible] but to no purpose. His body was recovered by dragging, about 7 o'clock, after [illegible] in the water near two hours. Mr. [illegible] steady and industrious man, aged [illegible] thirty-five years. He was a soldier [illegible] D, Oregon Cavalry, under Capt. [illegible] at his death a member of the [illegible] Guard in this city. All that we can [illegible] family connections, is that his father [illegible] Mrs. Holcomb, live on the Tualatin [illegible] miles back from Springville. A [illegible] will be sent to them with the news this [illegible] The remains lie at the Washington [illegible] Armory.

NEW BUILDINGS IN PORTLAND.—There are [illegible] of construction in this city several [illegible] buildings on the north Pacific [illegible] Corbett's building, on First street, has no [illegible] north of San Francisco in point of architectural beauty. It is the only iron front—from [illegible] to top—in the city. The walls are [illegible] and the workmen are already engaged [illegible] the interior. Dr. Glisan's building, [illegible] Front and Pine, covers a quarter [illegible] to be two stories high. The [illegible] up to the height of the roof. Capt. [illegible] building, the foundations of which [illegible] covers half a block, having [illegible] feet front on Front and First [illegible] a length of two hundred feet [illegible] This building being designed for [illegible] business, will be only two stories [illegible] high between floors—and constructed [illegible] style. Work on the brick walls was [illegible] yesterday afternoon. The building [illegible] the largest under a single roof north of San [illegible] Capt. Flanders' brick, at the steam[illegible] covers a quarter of a block. The [illegible] to the top of the second story. All [illegible] to be finished and occupied this [illegible] no means of knowing the cost of [illegible] but the aggregate of the four we [illegible] can scarcely fall short of $130,- [illegible] DEDICATION.—The new hall of [illegible] I. O. O. F., at Dayton, Yamhill [illegible] dedicated last Friday, by Grand [illegible] Dierdorff. Several of the brethren [illegible] and Oregon City were present, also, [illegible] in the ceremonies. The preliminary [illegible] took place at the old hall when a [illegible] was formed, headed by a band of [illegible] the lodge in a body, with the [illegible] to the church, where Bro. O. N. [illegible] Portland, delivered the oration. After [illegible] other exercises, the procession was [illegible] marched to the new hall, and then [illegible] dedicatory ceremonies proper. The [illegible] large one compared with two or three [illegible] State but is amply large for all possi[illegible] the lodge, and, in its finish and fur[illegible] a credit to the small band of brothers [illegible] built it. In the evening there was a [illegible] ball at the Dayton Hotel. The visiting [illegible] this city are profuse in their ex[illegible] of gratification at the happy manner in [illegible] ceremonies went off and the brotherly [illegible] style in which they were entertain[illegible] by Dayton brethren.

WAR EXCITEMENT.—At no time since the [illegible] has there been so much ex[illegible] in the streets as yesterday upon the re[illegible] that the French had captured [illegible] Prussian headquarters, and that King Wil[illegible] and Gen. Sheridan were prisoners. The [illegible] "talk" between the San Fran[illegible] and Portland operators, and the substance [illegible] posted on the newspaper [illegible] and published with the other [illegible] dispatches in extras. Large crowds [illegible] around the bulletins and discussed the [illegible] in the usual bantering style. Germans [illegible] excitement than even the French, [illegible] the latter were greatly elated, and Amer[illegible] with interest in talking the matter [illegible] thing the news was discred[illegible] though it was thought quite [illegible] the French army had achieved some [illegible] The news did not have so decided an [illegible] upon the price of legal tenders as might [illegible] Gold was reported in New [illegible] have risen to 118½. Legal tenders were [illegible] here, though in small sums, at 86½, and [illegible] asked 87½.

[illegible] MELVILLE'S BENEFIT.—This evening Mr. [illegible] takes his benefit at Oro Fino Theater. [illegible] a splendid bill—the comic Irish drama "[illegible] Last Legs," and the musical farce of "[illegible] and Mrs. Peter White," with a musical [illegible] songs and dances by the Pixley Sisters, Pete [illegible] Dennis, Johnny Kearney and [illegible] In "His Last Legs," Mr. Melville will [illegible] Felix O'Callahan, supported by the en[illegible] and in the farce, Melville and Miss [illegible] as Mr. and Mrs. Peter White. Clark, and found [illegible] the same gentleman a few days since. [illegible] had been considerably worn, but in the [illegible] by which it was recovered, it had [illegible] gold enough to make it worth [illegible] dollar and a quarter. The chemical [illegible] of quicksilver in the sluice box studded [illegible] all over with fine particles [illegible] gold, uniting them as firmly as if they had [illegible] together. It wouldn't be a bad thing to [illegible] a few thousand half dollars, if they could [illegible] returned again, "after many days," so [illegible] increased in value; but nobody is reported [illegible] going into the business.

THE UNITED STATES VS. W. K. SMITH.

INDICTMENT FOR PERJURY—PRISONER SENTENCED TO CONFINEMENT IN COUNTY JAIL ONE DAY AND TO PAY A FINE OF ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS.

In the U. S. District Court, yesterday morning, Judge Deady denied the motion for a new trial in the case of the United States vs. W. K. Smith, indicted and convicted of perjury, and pronounced sentence as follows:

"William K. Smith: You have been accused by the Grand Jury of this district of the crime of perjury, and, after a fair and impartial trial in which you had every facility to prepare your defence and every assistance that could be rendered you by learned and able counsel, you have been found guilty by the trial jury. The question of your intention in taking what appears to have been a false oath, belonged to them to determine. Their verdict against you, although it is possible it may be incorrect, establishes your guilt before the law, and makes it the duty of this court to ascertain and impose upon you the punishment which your crime deserves, "according to the aggravation of the offence." The act of Congress declares that upon conviction of perjury, the person convicted shall "be punished by fine not exceeding $2,000 and by imprisonment and confinement at hard labor, not exceeding five years, according to the aggravation of the offence."

It will be seen that in the matter of punishment much is left to the discretion of the court, and this is so, because of the great difference in the circumstances, and ultimate end under and for which perjury is and may be committed. The person who, as a witness, maliciously swears falsely, with the intention of convicting another of a capital offence, is the worst and most dangerous species of a murderer. Between this and the case of one who swears falsely to save or gain a few dollars in a legal controversy, so far, at least, as the welfare of society is concerned, there is a wide difference. Yours is a case where, so far as the court can know, the motive was to avoid the payment of $400 or $500, taxes, to the National Government. The lax state of morals in this and other American communities, which excuses if not encourages persons to avoid the payment of taxes justly due National, State, and Municipal governments, by the use of means which would be considered dishonest between man and man, may have had much to do with the commission of this crime by you. For these reasons, and particularly on account of the recommendation of the jury, I shall make your punishment lighter than I otherwise would. I sentence you to pay a fine of $1,000 and to be imprisoned in the county jail of Multnomah county for the term of one day, and it is also ordered and adjudged that the United States have judgment for such fine and costs, and that you stand committed to the jail aforesaid, one day for every two dollars of such fine and costs, or until the same are paid."

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

LETTER FROM J. GREGORY SMITH, PRESIDENT.

The Vancouver Register of yesterday has the following: A prominent citizen of Vancouver received this morning the following letter from Hon J. Gregory Smith, President of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, and has kindly permitted us to lay it before our readers.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 5th, 1870.

To ——, Dear sir: The copy of the proceedings of a public meeting of the citizens of Vancouver, held on the 4th of July last, to consider matters pertaining to the Northern Pacific Railroad, was forwarded to me at this place. I am exceedingly gratified at the interest manifested by the citizens of Vancouver in the enterprise with which I have the honor to be connected. At this distance from you, and with the comparatively limited knowledge we possess of the advantages of particular localities on the Pacific coast, it is very difficult for us to indicate any line of policy other than a general one.

It is our desire to cultivate the most amicable relations with every interest on the coast likely to be benefitted by the construction of our road, and to contribute as far as we can, by judicious location and by every other means in our power, to the highest development of the country there.

Our engineers are now at work making their examinations of the country. They are instructed, generally, to select the line best adapted to accomplish the end we desire.

It will give me great pleasure to instruct Major Flint, the engineer in charge of the surveys, to examine a line running to Fort Vancouver, and I shall forward such instructions to him at once.

I shall be very happy to receive from you any information regarding your locality, its advantages, &c., and any suggestions you may be pleased to make on the subject. Please address me at the Company's office, 120 Broadway, New York.

With sentiments of high regard, I am very truly yours,
J. GREGORY SMITH.
President N. P. R. R. Co.

A DARING SNEAK THIEF.—On Friday morning last, between two and three o'clock, some one entered the house of Mr. Wm. Delschneider, on the corner of First and B streets, and took his pants from his bedside, carried them into another room and took $9 from the pockets. Then he went to the wardrobe and took a new pair of pants and a vest and skedaddled, leaving the doors all open after him.

STEAMERS TO SAIL.—The propeller California will sail this afternoon at 6 o'clock for Victoria and Puget Sound ports. The Oriflamme is now announced to sail for San Francisco at 6 P. M. next Thursday.

The country is to be flooded with the minority report of the Committee on investigation into the charges brought by Fernando Wood against Gen. O. O. Howard, and the National Democratic Committee are to be the distributors.

THE great railroad era has dawned upon this State. The locomotive whistle is already heard in our midst. The North Pacific railroad have a regiment of engineers and surveyors in the field, and will soon have thousands of men constructing the road. Hundreds of new settlers are arriving every month to fill up our State and develop her resources. But it matters not how many come, KOHN & FISHEL will be ready for them with all kinds of Clothing and Staple goods. They are constantly receiving fresh supplies by every steamer, so their stock cannot be exhausted. Call and see them at their old stand on Front street.

SPIRITUAL GROVE MEETING.—At Battleville, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 9th, 10th and 11th. Good speakers have been secured for the occasion. The P. T. boats will carry passengers to and fro for half price. They will also dispatch an extra boat on Sunday for the benefit of those wishing to go on that day.

Don't be humbugged with the foolish idea that Catarrh cannot be cured! The world moves, and medical science is progressive. The proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will pay $500 reward for a case of Catarrh which he cannot cure. Sold by druggists. Can get it by mail for sixty cents from Dr. R. V. Pierce, of 133 Seneca street, Buffalo N. Y., who is the sole proprietor and only man now living that can make the Genuine. Don't forget that the genuine has Dr. Pierce's private Government Revenue Stamp on each package.

Save and mend the pieces, use "SPALDING'S GLUE."

Attention, Washington Guard!—You are hereby notified to assemble at your Armory to-day, (Tuesday), at 3 o'clock P. M., to attend the funeral of your late comrade, Serg't Z. D. Bones.

By order of the Captain,
WARD S. STEVENS, O. S.

Fever and Ague.—Why shake? PLANTATION BITTERS will positively cure any form of intermittent fever. Travel through any region where the malady prevails, and all who have tried the preparation will tell you so. Thousands of families in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, and on the borders of the Southern rivers and swamps, regard it as a specific for the complaint. Nothing could induce them to be without it; and they begin to take it regularly at the commencement of the Spring and at the close of Summer as a safeguard against malaria. They show their wisdom thereby. The shivering plague passes their door without intruding, to smite their neighbors who have shown less forecast. Every year, however, the number of these improvident victims decreases. There is no teacher like experience; and when a shaking and burning sufferer sees his friend on the next farm or plantation in perfect health, though breathing the same atmospheric poison as himself, and learns that this exception to the complaint is due to PLANTATION BITTERS.

Be on Your Guard.

"The unexampled success which for twenty years has accompanied the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters provokes the envy of ignorant nostrum mongers in all parts of the country, and the counterfeiting business having been measurably played out in consequence of the numerous suits instituted against offenders, a new system of tactics has been adopted. In the South and West especially a legion of "Bitters," prepared from worthless materials and bearing a variety of names, have been got up by irresponsible adventurers with the hope of substituting them to some extent for the Standard Tonic of the Age. In some cases country druggists are the concocters and proprietors of these unscientific and trashy compounds, which are warmly recommended by the vendors, who endeavor to palm them off in lieu of the great specific which has never yet had a successful competitor either among the proprietary preparations or the medicines prescribed in private practice. This notice is intended to put the public on their guard against persuasions of parties engaged in the attempt to substitute more rubbish for the most efficient stomachic and alterative at present known. At this season of the year it is of the greatest consequence that no tricks should be played with depressed and enfeebled systems. Ask therefore, for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the great vegetable invigorant and alterative, and reject, with deserved contempt, the worse than useless medleys offered in its place. It is as important to the public as to the proprietors of the famous restorative that this advice should be heeded.

SECURE A HOME!!

THE RIVERSIDE

HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION!

OF

EAST PORTLAND, OREGON.

IS NOW PREPARED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS to their Stock.

Application for ONE HUNDRED SHARES was made before the books were opened, and a large number of shares have been taken.

The following extracts from the Oregonian and Bulletin will convey a good idea of the plan and workings of the Association, the location of the land, etc., etc.

RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

This association of whose organization we gave an account a few days since, is now ready to dispose of shares. As it is with one exception, (the Portland Homestead Association,) the pioneer organization of that kind in this city, it may be well enough to state what are its purposes, and the manner in which it is proposed to conduct its operations. The purposes of these Homestead Associations are not at all speculative in the ordinary sense of the word. They are dependent for the profits of their investment upon the natural advance in the value of their lands, consequent upon the co-operation of many individuals—shareholders—and the advance on values of all surrounding lands by reason of the expansion of population and demand for room outside of, but still near, the city. The Riverside Homestead Association has a fraction over one hundred and twenty acres of land situated just south of Brooklyn on the east side of the river, the nearest boundary line being about one mile from the ferry landing at East Portland. The tract lies in one strip along the Wallamet river, half a mile in length, and another strip along the Oregon and California railroad, half a mile in length, the two strips being connected near the middle by two rows of blocks (with a street between them,) the whole forming a figure not unlike the letter H. It is divided into 74 blocks, 200 feet square (with streets running at right angles) and 80 fractional lots, along the river front. The shares number 600, worth $60 per share. It will be seen that a share thus represents nearly a lot with an undivided interest in the 80 fractional lots. The 80 fractional shares are to be sold off at the proper time for the benefit of the Association, shareholders coming in for the proceeds in proportion to the number of shares held. When all shares are taken and the Association shall determine to do it, the choice of lots and blocks will be put up at auction to the highest bidder, the proceeds of such sales, after deducting the original price of shares or lots, to be divided equally among the whole number of shares. Thus, if a person wants a particular lot or block, and is willing to pay $100 or $500 premium (more or less as the case may be) he pays it and takes the lot or block as his individual property, the premium being divided among the whole number of shareholders. It will be seen, therefore, that everything is co-operative, and all interests mutual. No man can make a dollar out of it without also making a dollar for every other equal shareholder. There is no chance for loss, unless the property, by some chance, should depreciate far below the first actual cost. Whether this is liable to happen in the case of this particular tract of land must be judged by each for himself; but considering the steady and unprecedented advance on real estate in this city and neighborhood, and at East Portland and vicinity, for the last year or two, it seems hardly possible for values to go back.

In the Riverside Association all proper precautions seem to have been taken to guard against monopolies of shares. No person is allowed to buy more than the number of shares representing three blocks, or twenty-four lots, and votes determining the operations of the Association are restricted in the same manner. The buyers of shares may pay down $60 per share, which will exempt them from all assessments, or they may pay $15 quarterly with an assessment of $3 per share, payable with the first installment, being liable in this latter case to another (and only one other) assessment of $3 per share. Upon the payment of the shares in full, with the assessments as above, the holder is entitled to his certificate and his proportion of all the profits accrued from all sources. No officer of the Association receives any pay for services except the Secretary, who gets $25 per month; so it will be seen that the expenses must be light.

That part of the tract lying along the river is a high plateau, nearly level, about 60 to 90 feet above the water. There is no part of the front row of blocks but commands a splendid view of Portland and the river for miles up and down stream. That part of the tract lying along the railroad is, every foot of it, of the richest loam soil and adapted to gardening purposes. A beautiful little stream of pure water runs through almost the entire length of this wing of the tract, affording the means of irrigation, and power sufficient to supply pure water to every part of the whole tract. There is not a waste lot or fractional lot in the entire tract. Under all these advantages, it would seem impossible that there should be any chance of loss to shareholders. Within a year each shareholder, if he choose, may get a perfect title to as many lots as his shares may represent, or he may continue his interest, undivided, with the Association while the organization may exist.—Oregonian.

THE RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

We have been led to make these remarks from the fact that the subject of making homesteads on the outskirts of this city and East Portland, is being thoroughly discussed here among all classes, and one homestead—the "Riverside," just south of East Portland—has already been established. The site selected is a tract of land lying a little over a mile south of the ferry landing. It is shaped like the letter H, one side of which, a half mile in length, borders on the river.

From this portion of the homestead, which is elevated but a trifle above the other prong of the H, but is still forty or fifty feet above the river, can be had an extensive view of Portland, East Portland, the shipping, and the Willamette river for several miles. The land is very fertile, and is partly covered with light fir timber. A tract of land just wide enough for two rows of blocks, with an avenue between them, connects the west prong of the H (which has already been described) with that on the east. This last tract of land is in a beautiful little valley, which is now under a high state of cultivation. Through its whole length runs a trout brook, the water of which is clear as crystal. With a hydraulic ram the Association proposes to have water conveyed through pipes to every portion of the homestead.—Daily Bulletin.

"Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep."

Golden head, so lowly bending,
Little feet so white and bare,
Dewy eyes half shut, half opened,
Lisping out her evening prayer.

Well she knows when she is saying,
"Now I lay me down to sleep,"
'Tis to God that she is praying—
Praying Him her soul to keep.

Half asleep, and murmuring faintly,
"If I should die before I wake"—
Tiny fingers clasped so saintly—
"I pray the Lord my soul to take."

Oh, the rapture sweet, unbroken,
Of the soul who wrote that prayer!
Children's myriad voices floating
Up to heaven, record it there.

If, of all that has been written,
I could choose what might be mine,
It should be that child's petition
Rising to the throne divine.

When the muffled bells were ringing,
"Earth to earth, and dust to dust,"
My free soul, on faith depending—
Faith, and love and perfect trust—

Would approach Him, humbly praying,
(All the little ones around)
"Jesus, Saviour, take Thy servant!
Give to her Thy children's crown!"

The Left Bank of the Rhine.

To the Editors of the N. Y. Evening Post:

A superficial glance at the map may possibly sometime lead to the impression that the Rhine is the natural, and that it ought therefore to be the actual, political boundary between France and Germany. So a casual glance at the map might lead a stranger to imagine that the Hudson river ought to be the boundary between New York and New England. But the Germans would not tolerate an assumption of this kind any sooner than the New Yorkers. Indeed, the argument against it, derived from past history and from the present state of things, are much stronger in the case of the Rhine than of the Hudson.

The inhabitants of the left bank of the Rhine are, and always have been, Germans. But the province called Elsass, or Alsace, or Alsatia, which extends along the left bank for the distance of about one hundred miles below Basle, in Switzerland, was ceded to France by the treaty of Westphalia in 1648, by way of compensation for the services of the French to the cause of the Protestants in the Thirty Years' War. This was the first, as it is still the only foothold of the French upon the Rhine. Strasburg is the principal city of Elsass. Its population, after two hundred years of French domination, remains German almost as much as its celebrated Gothic cathedral. It was a free city of the German empire, and as such entitled to a seat in its Diet.

The same may be said of five other towns in Elsass, and also of the fortified town of Metz on the Moselle in the province of Lorraine, which was once a province of Germany.

Following down the left bank of the Rhine below the French possessions, we come to Spires, the capital of Rhenish Bavaria, otherwise called the Palatinate, and then to Worms in the Grand Duchy of Hesse Darmstadt. These old German towns were imperial free cities, and in them diets of the empire were held. Several of the emperors resided at Spires, and nine of them, among them Rudolph of Hapsburg, are buried in the vaults of its cathedral. Here, in 1529, the decree of the diet against the doctrines of the Reformers was passed, which led to a vigorous "protest" on the part of the minority, and hence the name of Protestants. In 1521, at Worms, was held the diet at which Luther appeared and made his celebrated defence of himself before the Emperor Charles the Fifth.

Continuing the journey, we arrive at the garrisoned town of Mainz or Mayence, the birthplace and residence of Guttenberg, and the cradle of the art of printing. The archbishops of Mainz were powerful temporal princes, and were first in rank of the Electors of the German Empire. Crossing the Nahe or Bingen we enter the Prussian possessions on the west side of the Rhine, which are composed chiefly of territories that belonged to the Archbishoprics of Cologne and Treves, and the Duchies of Cleves and Julich, all of which were fiefs of the Empire. The towns of [illegible] and Duren, in this part of Prussia, and also Cologne (with its German Cathedral) the largest and wealthiest town on the Rhine, were imperial free cities. So also was Aix-la-Chapelle, or Aachen, [illegible] west of Cologne, on the borders of Belgium, renowned for its congresses, its diets, its councils, and coronations of Emperors.

Mention ought also to be made of Bonn, on the Rhine, the birthplace of Beethoven and the seat of a flourishing German university, where Niebuhr, Schlegel, Arndt, and Dahlmann, lived and taught, and where Lange, whose Bible Commentaries are so well known in this country, lives and teaches. The population of the Prussian, Bavarian, and Hessian territories west of the Rhine is something over three millions, and about two-thirds of these are subjects of Prussia.

The foregoing statement, though necessarily meager and imperfect, will serve to dispel any illusions as to the reasonableness of the French Emperor in his ambition to extend his conquest to the Rhine, and to explain the unanimity of the uprising of the Germans. They would as soon think of abandoning Berlin or Leipsic to the Russians as of surrendering Cologne or Mainz or Treves to the French. They have no central city like Rome, or Paris, or London. But if there is anything in the world which they regard as sacredly their own, it is the noble river and its fertile valley, filled with the ancient seats of their civilization and the monuments of their art and industry—the faithful chronicles of their history—and they will most assuredly fight to the last to defend and keep it from the French, as a man will fight to defend his home and hearth-stone against robbers.

Waifs and Strays. The Port Townsend Weekly Argus of a late date contains an item respecting the remarkable action of the currents which flow along the coast. Says our cotemporary:

There is on the beach between Port Angelos and Dungeness a large redwood saw-log which evidently drifted there from California as there are no redwood trees north of that State. There must be a strong current setting northward along the coasts of Oregon and British Columbia, as freight thrown over board on Columbia Bar from the Pacific a few years ago was picked up on Queen Charlotte Island a few months after the disaster, which proves beyond a doubt that evidences of the wreck of the barks Vernon and Kutusoff will have to be looked for on the many beaches of Kodiak, Oonalaska and other parts of Alaska Territory. Capt. Foster, late of the bark Buena Vista, while lying sick at Kodiak, heard of part of a wreck coming ashore on the north side of the island—a top-mast, life rail and cabin door—and gave the Indian five dollars to bring the door, thinking it was a portion of the bark Buena Vista which had left a few days before with a load of ice. On seeing the door he knew it did not belong to his vessel. Upon inquiry he found that the life-rail was painted blue and he thinks it a part of the ill-fated Vernon which left here last winter for Honolulu and has not since been heard of.

How a Camel Goes Through the Eye of a Needle.—The passage from the New Testament, "It is easier for a camel" etc. has perplexed many good men, who have read it literally. In Oriental cities there are, in the large gates, small and very low apertures, called, metaphorically, "needles' eyes," just as we talk of certain windows as "bulls' eyes." These entrances are too narrow for a camel to pass through them in the ordinary manner if loaded. When a camel has to pass through one of these entrances it kneels down, its load is removed, and then it shuffles through on its knees. "Yesterday," writes Lady Duff Gordon, from Cairo, "I saw a camel go through the eye of a needle—this is the low, arched door of an enclosure. He must kneel, and bow his head to creep through; and thus the rich man must humble himself."

A little boy embodied his thoughts on theology in words, thus:

"I don't see how the devil came to turn out so when there was no other devil to put him up to it."

France on Her Defense.

[From the N. Y. Times, Aug. [illegible]]

There are people who profess to see in warfare the one point on which the human race have made absolutely no progress. The hordes of primitive men who on the strength of a more fatal kind of flint arrow-heads than their neighbors, made war on an adjacent tribe, furnish in the opinion of such critics, an exact counterpart to the modern nations, who no sooner possess an improved fire-arm than they show an unbridled haste to try its effect on the field of battle. Admitting the radically barbarous principle that underlies all warfare, it is a very noticeable fact that each successive outbreak of hostilities finds the belligerents more desirous than ever of setting themselves right with the rest of the world in regard to the purity of the motives that impelled them to fight. Of the two nations now engaged in actual conflict, France has assuredly been the most severely arraigned at the bar of civilization and humanity. Even in quarters where she might reasonably have expected sympathy on the score of previous alliance and mutual services, the flimsy pretext on which she entered into the quarrel has caused other grounds on which it may have become inevitable to be lost sight of, and thus she has been forced to occupy, in the estimation of other nations, the position of actual aggressor, and therefore of the Power directly responsible for the contest now in progress.

The attempts already made by the French Government to vindicate the technical justice of its declaration of war against Prussia have been but partially successful. They have all virtually resolved themselves into the statement that the growing ascendancy of Prussia was dangerous to the freedom of Germany, to the existence of Austria, to the safety of France, and, therefore, to the peace of Europe. The Germans have already given the most emphatic rebuff to foreign intervention in their affairs by hastening to enroll themselves without reserve or hesitation under the banner of the King of Prussia. Austria has probably already begun to pray to be saved from such exhibitions of friendly concern, and Europe generally has unequivocally expressed its conviction that France would have had a much stronger claim to the title of a peacemaker had she accepted the mediation of neutral Powers which was so strongly pressed upon her. Apparently chafing under what they consider a grievous misapprehension, the French Cabinet returned once more to the task of self-defense, and to judge by the sample transmitted by telegraph, have emitted another elaborate vindication of the position whose ultimate settlement now rests with the strongest battalions.

All unprejudiced observers have already concluded that France has a much stronger case against Prussia on the general basis of a rivalry which only the sword could settle, than on any special point on which she chose to join issue with that Power. The diplomacy of Berlin has, in fact, been more than a match for that of Paris, and the somewhat declamatory sentences quoted from the Duke of Grammont's circular do not tend to raise our estimate either of the ability or the candor of the late foreign policy of France. It is doubtless perfectly true that proposals for mutual disarmament were made by France to Prussia, but most people will be inclined to think, as Count Bismarck seems to have done, that the sincerity of these proposals was open to question. "Preoccupied" as she may have been "with the development of her political institutions," the fact is now patent to the world that France has been steadily preparing for a great struggle, and that when the moment arrived she was in a more advanced stage of preparation than Prussia. It is obvious that her readiness to fight had a pretty intimate connection with her opinion as to the outrage "which no nation could accept without incurring contempt." In fact, the present attempt at labored defense, like those that have preceded it, only serves to show that good as the general grounds of the quarrel may in many respects have been, its special occasion was, on the part of France, ill-chosen.

Senator Conkling on the Republican Party and the Germans.

[From the New York Herald.]

Pending the late gathering of the Republican State Committee at Saratoga Springs Senator Conkling was serenaded, and thereupon delivered a stirring exhortation to the Republican party of the Empire State, from which, we infer, they intend to make a vigorous fight for the recovery of the State in the coming November election, and that they calculate upon a considerable reduction of the average Democratic majority of this city of the last four years, through the new election-regulating laws of Congress.

But the particular feature of Mr. Conkling's speech, which stands out in the boldest relief, is that in which he touches upon this Franco-Prussian war. Upon this important subject, as an authorized organ of the Republican party, he says:—"War has gone from us and its bloody shadow falls on France;" that "perhaps war has gone with an avenging hand to smite the sick man who dominates the land of Lafayette: perhaps war strikes the last hour for the Emperor who plotted and schemed against us in the hour of our trial." This means that the Republican party hold Louis Napoleon as a confederate of Jeff Davis in our Southern rebellion, and that in this war, whatever may be their sympathies for France, they have no sympathy for Napoleon or his dynasty. But, whatever may be the issues of this war, "God grant," says Mr. Conkling, "that no harm may come to Germany. Germany sympathized with us, the sons of Germany fought for us, and cheers of victory went up in the German tongue from the burning battle fields of our rebellion. Germany's constitution is like ours; Prussia believes, as we do, in education for all, and Republicans everywhere join me in this hope that no harm is in store for Germany."

We believe that Mr. Conkling is correct in this declaration "that Republicans everywhere (as applied to the Republican party in this country) join me in this hope that no harm is in store for Germany." This party, then, may be placed on the side of Germany, and Mr. Conkling, in behalf of the party, evidently wishes it so to be understood throughout this State, looking to the approaching November election. On the other hand, so far as the newspaper organs and oracles of the Democratic party have spoken, they have spoken for France, and for the reason that the important Irish element of this party is enthusiastically up for France, from the expectation that in this war the entente cordiale between France and England will be broken, and that with England drawn into the fight for Prussia, France will become an active agent in behalf of Ireland's independence.

This political view of the question places the Democratic party in New York, as we have heretofore suggested, in a very delicate position, because in this city and its surrounding a very large proportion of our German voters are with the Democracy, and because if the German voting element of New York and Brooklyn and other cities join the Republican party en masse, these cities and the State may be revolutionized.

Our Bonds Abroad. The New York Tribune says:

Our financiers do not believe that the further progress of the war is likely to effect injuriously American securities. The rise in the price of gold has thus far prevented the return of our bonds, which had been so much and so unwisely dreaded, and no serious derangement in consequence seems now to be apprehended. As the war advances, they believe that European investors will gradually come to regard with more and more favor the obligations of the only strong Government whose finances are in a healthy condition, and whose situation is such that there is no possibility of its being drawn into the contest. In this case, the market for our bonds would be increased, not diminished, by the war, and the United States would substantially become a Safe Deposit Company for Europe.

The Evening Mail represents that landlords are having a fearfully hard time in New York. Rents are down to ante-war figures, and on the side streets, from Fourteenth to Sixteenth at least every tenth house bears a sign "To let," and in some instances the placards of half a dozen agents are displayed on the same building.

American Ideas in European Warfare

The [illegible] Navy Journal has an article under this head, showing how both France and Prussia are acting upon the suggestion of our recent experience. Editorially it is said that the French gun, the mitrailleur, is a direct theft from an American invention. As to the needle gun, it is said that there are many American pieces which are to be preferred to it. We quote:

The needle-gun has been somewhat improved by changes to which we have already called attention, and we are disposed to think that it will prove to be a better gun than the much advertised Chassepot, which was chosen hastily to meet the emergency, its chief recommendation being the fact that it was the invention of a French officer. It was brought into competition at the time of its selection with only two or three other breech-loaders, none of which were among the best. It has been tested in England and elsewhere in competitive trials with other guns since its adoption in France, and very much to the damage of its reputation. A French pamphleteer, whose brochure we have before us, asserts, moreover, that a large proportion of the Chassepots in the ranks of the French troops are very badly made. The parts are not interchangable, as they should be, and the gun has many faults which would condemn it anywhere in a fair trial. Still there is not enough difference between the needle-gun and the Chassepot to give either army any decided advantage.

CAUSES OF THE WAR.

[From the New York Nation.]

Prussia compelled Napoleon I. to fight her by refusing to be his abject slave. She has compelled Napoleon III. to fight her by her victory at Sadowa. This victory by its suddenness has frustrated the schemes of French expansion and made Prussia almost the equal of France in power. It has eclipsed Sevastapol, Magenta, and Solferino which were the dearly bought compensations in gloire for endless sacrifices of liberté and partly effaced even the remembrance of Jena and Wagram. It has aroused the vanity of the French to a degree which makes them both restless and restive. The trophies of Miltiades will not allow Themistocles to sleep; from the day of Sadowa France has enjoyed no rest. She has actually began to doubt whether she is, after all, la grande nation. A great revolution and great victories long ago procured her that glorious title; she sees it now rapidly becoming vain-glorious merely. She must have new victories or else a new revolution.

Coincidence of Dates and Events.—In 1807 France was at war with Prussia. In 1870, which embraces the same figures reversed, there are again hostilities between them. In 1756 there was also war between the same powers, in which France sustained a terrible defeat. Just fifty years after that event 1806, Prussia was humiliated, yea, more than that, almost destroyed, by the disastrous double battle of Jena and Auerstadt. In commenting upon that event the English historian, Allison, says: "Such were the disastrous battles of Jena and Auerstadt, which prostrated the strength of the Prussian monarchy, and in one day effected that which all the might of Russia, Austria and France had been unable to effect in the seven years' war, from 1756 to 1763." Curiously enough, sixty years from that time, in 1866, Prussia was raised to the heighth of power by the extraordinary results of the battle of Sadowa.

1805, the Russian power received a crushing defeat in the great battle of Austerlitz, in which three Emperors were present, viz: The Emperors of France, Russia and Austria. The forces of the two latter were united, but four-fifths of those who participated in the struggle at Austerlitz were Russian. A half century passed away, and in 1855 the French and the Russians were contending for supremacy at Sebastopol, under Emperors of the same names as those who met in 1805.

In 1809 the French were at war with the Austrians, and entered Vienna in triumph. In 1859, at the end of a half centennial period, the same countries were engaged in a deadly contest, with even larger numbers in Northern Italy. In 1799 the first Napoleon had seized, as First Consul, the supreme authority in France. In 1849, fifty years after, the third Napoleon had just been elected President of the same country.

The Stevens Battery.—The following concerning this noted battery, we clip from the Philadelphia Ledger:

The final disposal of this tremendous engine of war is at present a question of some doubt. Mr. Edwin A. Stevens, it will be remembered, bequeathed to the State of New Jersey the unfinished battery, together with sufficient means to finish it. Congress at its last session, passed an act allowing New Jersey to accept the gift, and workmen are now employed in finishing this powerful vessel, which, it is believed, can be completed in about four months. In the meantime, hostilities have broken out in Europe, and it is reported that Prussian agents have been endeavoring to purchase the battery. These negotiations, however, proved a failure in consequence of the refusal of the General Government to permit the vessel to pass into the hands of a foreign power. Since then it is stated that a commission of officers from the U. S. Navy has been examining the Stevens battery with a view of securing it for our navy. The battery is estimated to be worth over $2,000,000, and New Jersey would, doubt, be very glad to receive this amount towards the payment of her State debt, and also to be relieved from the expense of keeping up this iron-clad in an effective condition.

During our late war, there existed a society in Frankfort-on-the-Main, the Capital of Germany, to aid the sick and wounded soldiers of the Union. Bales of lint and hospital stores and supplies, of various kinds, were forwarded by this generous and charitable organization to the Surgeon General of the army, at Washington, and were publicly acknowledged from time to time by the Secretary of War. These contributions were expressive, not only of the feeling of humanity, but of special sympathy with the cause of the North in our terrible struggle.

HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It requires no Gutta Percha, as is to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.
